

Gasoline Heart "Steam"

Visit "Steam" on MotoLyrics.com

I'm the one who is lonely now
Sick and tired of these ins and outs
I'm in between like your favorite drink
Your steam is safe or so you think

It's kind of clever how nothing's changed
Except my name and maybe our handshakes
I pretend to remember your name
And you sort of remember my face

I'm open but I wish I were closed
I didn't want to know what some people know
I am a well dried up, I am a well dried up

Morning should never start like this
Empty feelings on what I've missed
I got no regrets, wait, maybe I do
I got no living and I got no clue

Am I right? I'm most likely wrong
Nothing's changed except the lines in my palms
I'm growing older and I'm distracted once again
Young hearts promise not to promise again
Promise again

I'm open but I wish I were closed
I didn't want to know what some people know
I am a well dried up, I am a well dried up

Love, it don't mean a thing
If your heart is broke, just let it be
I am a well dried up, I am a well dried up
Yeah, hey

I'm open but I wish I were closed
I didn't want to know what some people know
I am a well dried up, I am a well dried up

Love, it don't mean a thing
If your heart is broke, just let it be
I am a well dried up, I am a well dried up

Love, it never meant a thing
And if your heart is broken, just let it be
I'm not sure anyone was watching
When the one you're holding lets you leave
Lets you leave, yeah
