You can tell me everything I please to
It seems so easy to believe you
But I cannot wait until you tell me truth

Everytime they ask about your weakness
Everytime you say it's not your business, babe
Oh what a shame

Oh what a shame, oh what a shame
I've never heard you tell the truth
And there is nothing more to prove
Everytime you're telling lies
I can see it in your eyes

Will you ever take me to the disco
Will you buy me lemonade and whiskey
How can I know that you are telling truth

Every time I try to catch you lying
You just start shouting and crying at me
Oh what a shame

Oh what a shame, oh what a shame
I've never heard you tell the truth
And there is nothing more to prove
Everytime you're telling lies
I can see it in your eyes

Oh what a shame, oh what a shame
I've never heard you tell the truth
And there is nothing more to prove
Everytime you're telling lies
I can see it in your eyes

I've never heard you tell the truth
And there is nothing more to prove
Everytime you're telling lies
I can see it in your eyes
