all of us are aliens
all of us are aliens somewhere she fell like falling in love it feels so good to arrive missing my train on the tracks of time and time again I keep falling into the deep end to end to end to end it all I can't go get help while I'm breaking your fall with a note that's wrote by a woman who eloped with a man in a black cloak I got a postcard from a strange cloud and at the bottom she signed

"having a great time, love always"

when is she going to get there?
I wish she wasn't so shy she didn't play badminton and it wasn't a joke she didn't play chess she just said, "Come on lets go!" to the bloke in the cloak who broke her yoke and she croaked like a baby burping up soul so she could feel better than before ever ever before she got a singing telegram singing

she loves you more than you know
