Music by Sanrabb

Lyrics by Dolgar

Brought by death to the edge of the abyss

Fiercely thrown down into a void so cold

Darkness as you knew it's nothing compared to this

Going over the edge and into oblivion

On dark silken wings carried further away

To a place of sadness and tranquility

On a chariot of gold, the shade of a man

That before the seventh moon would give his heart and soul

Fire forever in the sky

Fire burning the sins of my past life

Fire torching my soul

It is my pleasure I will never see happen

With a snake wrung around his neck

He leaves sadness alone in the night

Feeding on sorrow, figure in black

Hunters leave your home
