(CHORUS)

There was a lights out television show
There was Amos and Andy on the radio
And a man on a hill running round
Don't you know
Saying everybody here got to go
Saying everybody here got to go
There were some
People out in Hollywood
The words they had spoken
It was well understood
But three thousand miles
And for everyones good
A man stood singing his song
Dancing around all the tombstones
He said that a man if he's living
Would rather be dead
And he opened the eyes
To the typewriter's lead
And he said, now
It won't be too long

(CHORUS)

Saying everybody here got to go

(CHORUS)

Saying everybody here got to go

Saying everybody here got to go

The people, they gathered

From miles all around

Like a Sunday in Salem

They all could be found

And the lights all went out

With a deafening sound

As the church bells

Rang once again

The curtains were drawn

And the prophets had cried

When somebody screamed

That the joker had lied

The damage was done

And the saints crucified

And the truth will be

Lost til the end

(CHORUS)

Saying everybody here got to go

(CHORUS)

Saying everybody here got to go

Saying everybody here got to go
