(Ann J Morton)

There's our house, the porch light's on
I know she's waiting for me to come home
Then I've got to face the look in baby's eyes
I wonder how many times she's cried
I guess as many times as I've lied
To help put the look in baby's eyes.

She don't have to say a word
Lord, 'cause she talks with those eyes of hers
They always say I know & follow me wherever I go
I've gotta change my ways
And I'm gonna start today.

'Cause I don't wanna see the look in baby's eyes
Lord, I hope, that she will understand
I'll do my best, and if I can
I'll change the look in my baby's eyes...
