Calling all stations
Can anybody tell me
Tell me exactly where I am?
I've lost all sense of direction

Watchin' the darkness closin' around me
Feelin' the cold all through my body
That's why I'm calling all stations
In the hope that someone hears me
A single lonely voice

I feel the sensation disappearing
There's a tingling in my arms
And there's a numbness in my hands

All the broken promises
All my good intentions don't add up to very much
And I realize whatever happened
Whatever happened

I remember all the moments that I've wasted in my life
All the things I was always gonna do
Why is it now, when it's too late
That I've finally realized it's important to me

To think that everything that's dear to me
And is always in my heart
Could so easily be taken
And it's tearing me apart
Goin' over and over in my mind
I relive it one second at a time

Calling all stations
Can anybody tell me, tell me exactly where I am?
How different things look when your all on your own
Watchin' the darkness closin' all around me
All around me

And I'm lost with the feeling
Of your arms still remind me
Of everything that's dear to me
And is always in my heart

Could so easily be taken
And it's tearing me apart
Goin' over and over in my mind
I relive it one second at a time

Don't you know there's never been a moment
When I haven't had the thought
That everything that's dear to me
And is always in my heart
Could so easily be taken
And it's tearing me apart
Goin' over and over in my mind
I can relive it one second at a time

As I sit here in the darkness feelin' so alone
And everything that's dear to me
And is always in my heart
Could so easily be taken
And it's tearing me apart
