"Wish You Were Shy"

if i could have in my fingertips what;s on the tip of my tongue i'd just speak your name and sweep you away i'd want to take you today

(but) there's a social religion that stands as our division so i sit and i pray that before i get the nerve no one will take you away ohiwish you were shy just like me but i can't even look you in the eye i wish you were shy but if you were we might never be together i strain for your attention can't we forget about convention i've read all the books please can't you read my mind you might like what you'll find i know i shouldn't talk just to myself if i could only get past the first word oh i don't know
