In the paper I saw you this morning you were lovely dressed in your wedding gown

And it said you would marry a stranger to me

That had drifted into our old hometown

Accidentaly you've met him one evening and you say it was love at first sight

Accidentaly on purpose you've married accidentaly on purpose for spite

For you say you're sorry I'm painting the town

That I was just a fool with a heart of a clown

Accidentaly you were mistaken that night accidentaly on purpose for spite

Yes you say you're sorry...
