Do you think I'll keep on waitin' for your love while you keep date
Other fellows in this town that think you're free
I can't give something dear for nothing surely this time
I'm not bluffing
I won't love you any more than you love me.

You like wordly ways and riches pretty clothes and fancy stitches
And you think you're living best with all of these
But I know one thing for certain my old heart can't stand this hurtin'
It's not right to love you more than you love me.

I can't run around with everyone to play with you
So why must I be the one who's always so confused This love affair is far from even and I believe in even steven
It's not right to love you more than you love me...
