It scares me half to death to think I almost lost you
It breaks my heart to know how much I made you cry And if you'll let me show you darling I'll right the wrongs I've done
And ease the heartaches I have caused in the days gone by.

You told me that our love was cold
And then you said goodbye
But I can't love another I'd be living a lie.

It scares me half to death to think I had forgotten
The vows we made to stay together come what may
And while I'm holding you my darling I'm holding my breath
'Cause just the thought of losing you scares me half to death.

It scares me half to death to think I had forgotten
The vows we made to stay together come what may
And while I'm holding you my darling I'm holding my
death...
