When you're part of that fast race that your new love put you in
You can always come back to my arms again
And if he give you new heartaches and the lonely nights begin
You can always come back to my arms again.

'Cause I havn't done a thing since you've been gone Except to wait here and hurt all over and forgive you for each wrong
But when you find out you've been left out to face a cold and bitter wind
You can always come back to my arms again.

--- Instrumental ---

When you get up from your let down and your head stops it spinning
You can always come back to my arms again...
