

George Jones "After You"

Visit "After You" on MotoLyrics.com

So September follows August, I don't mind
So three and four and the fifth comes after two Will anything mean anything, do I care what tomorrow brings
I only wonder what comes after you.

After you when someone smiles at me I wonder what to trust
After you I'll be suspicious of anything that's nice
I don't know that I'll get over you and if I ever do
I'll never doubt this much again, not after you.

Loving you it's just too good to last forever
So the world could end tomorrow I won't care After you when someone tells me there's no heaven on this earth
I can say that I know better, I've been there.

After you when someone smiles at me I'll wonder what to trust
After you I'll be suspicious of anything that's nice
I don't know that I'll get over you and if I ever do
I'll never doubt this much again, not after you...

Visit George Jones page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.