Not long ago this heart of mine was broken
And around this heart of mine I built a wall
Just living like there never was tomorrow
Then I met you that's when I knew the wall would fall.

The wall is falling from around this heart of mine
I can't resist your tender kiss that's so divine
To lose you now would be my big downfall
So please don't make me build another wall.

--- Instrumental ---

I'm free now from the prison built by heartbreak
Where memories from your love have held me down
But in your arms I've found true love and freedom
I'm glad you crumbled my walls to the ground.

The wall has falling from around this heart of mine.
I can't resist your tender kiss that's so divine
To lose you now would be my big downfall.
So please don't make me build another wall...
