Adam was lonely, and God sent him Eve He said let there be woman to fill this mans need Now your names not Eve and our home is no garden But you're what God intended when He said let there be woman.

Let there be woman to cling to his hand Let there be woman to stand by her man And when I am so alone you say I'm only human Yes, your what God intended when He said let there be woman.

My world was empty so lonely and blue Serching for someone and God sent me you When you gave your love to me I must of felt just like Adam For I knew what God intended when He said let there

Let there be woman to cling to his hand Let there be woman to stand by her man And when I am so alone you say I'm only human Yes, your what God intended when He said let there be woman...
