(Jacqueline Wellman)

Adam was lonely and God sent him Eve
He said let there be woman to fill this man's need
Now your names not Eve and our home is no garden
But you're what God intended when he said
Let there be woman.

Let there be woman to cling to his hand
Let there be woman to stand by her man
And when I am so alone you say I'm only human
Yes, you're what God intended when he said
Let there be woman.

My world was empty, so lonely and blue
Searching for someone and God sent me you
When you gave your love to me
I musta felt just like Adam
For I knew what God intended when he said
Let the be woman.

Let there be woman to cling to his hand
Let there be woman to stand by her man
And when I am so alone you say I'm only humane
Yes, you're what God intended when he said
Let there be woman...
