(Dave Kirby - Glenn Martin)

The old man has sold his apples
Isn't there any more
And the city square don't seem as big
As it did before.

They tore down that old drug store
We used to love so much
But everything is still the same
In my memories of us.

That old school bus has long stopped runnin'
And I heard the driver died
And the movie house is all boarded up
Where we set side by side.

And the sign that said 'State Champions'
It's covered up with dust
But everything it's still the same
In my memories of us.

In my memories of us
Things are still the same
For yesterdays is something
Tomorrows can not change.

Where freckles just don't disappear
Ands pigtails never rust
And everything it's still the same
In my memories of us.

My memories of us...
