There's a story spreading 'round 'bout a stranger in our town

And the people say he's weird as he can be
Big sunglasses, a big black hat, they all say, say who's that

Up till now they still don't know the stranger's me.

Oh, I will die if they find out I'm the fool they laughed about

After all the times they warned me she would break my heart and leave

I've been living in disguise hiding from her shameful lies

Up till now they still don't know the stranger's me.

--- Instrumental ---

Changed the style of clothes I wear, changed the way I combed my hair

Friends are pointin' finger asking who is he.

My ols self ain't been the same since my babe has brought me shame

Up till now they still don't know the stranger's me.

Oh, I will die if they'd find out I'm the fool they laughed about

After all the times they warned me she would break my heart and leave

I've been living in disguise hiding from her shameful lies

Up till now they still don't know the stranger's me.

Up till now they still don't know the stranger's me...
