Darling look what you've done to my life, the change is plain to see

You took each part of this broken heart and made a new man of me

When I thought that all was lost just look at what I've found

You're living proof what love can do the second time around.

Mistakes I made in my younger days and times that passed seemed high

But the bridge I've burned was a lesson I've learned

And I'll get it right this time

I'll be the man you see in me and I'll never let you down

You gave my heart a brand new start the second time around.

Every dream I ever dreamed and my first one to come true

I've never heard more sweeter words than when you said I do

And when it's all said and done if this old world let's me down

God above will bless our love the second time around.

God above will bless our love the second time around.
