

George Jones

"The Selfishness in Man"

Visit "The Selfishness in Man" on MotoLyrics.com

I saw a little beam of sunlight steal across a purple sky

And bend down to kiss a rosebud, oh, it made me wanna cry

To think that I had been permitted to see a part of nature's plan

Oh, there's nothing that stands out more than the selfishness in man.

Little children painting pictures of the birds and apple trees

Oh, why can't the grown up people have the faith of one of these

And to think those tiny fingers might become a killer's hand

Oh, there's nothing that stands out more than the
selfishness in man.

Why can't we see the folly and the uselessness of hate

Love could lead to understanding maybe it's not too late

Then perhaps in His great wisdom we might learn to understand

Then there'd be no shame or sorrow and no
selfishness in man.

--- Instrumental ---

Why can't we see the folly and the uselessness of hate

Love could lead to understanding maybe it's not too
late

Then perhaps in his great wisdom we might learn to understand

Then there'd be no shame or sorrow and no
selfishness in man...

Visit George Jones page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.

MotoLyrics.com | Lyrics, music videos, artist biographies, releases and more.