Girl you were always my yellow rose
And I was your one lone star
We always said
"Together till death do us part"

We had a love bigger than Texas
Where is that feeling now?
It's taken some hits and some losses
But it's fighting on, and standing somehow

Remember the man who asked for your hand
In the moonlight of San Antone
And there by the mission
You let your position be known
That you loved me so
Don't forget where it started
Remember the Alamo

I think we can hold on, and make it together
If we remember when
And get back to love
The way that it was back then

When we were hopeless romantics
Needing each other, willing to take a chance
We strolled and we talked down the ol' river walk
To the heart of where it began

Remember the man who asked for your hand
In the moonlight of San Antone
And there by the mission
You let your position be known
That you loved me so
Don't forget where it started
Remember the Alamo

Remember the man who asked for your hand
In the moonlight of San Antone
And there by the mission
You let your position be known
That you loved me so
Don't forget where it started

Don't forget where it started
Remember the Alamo
