Winter's come, another year, another season begun
Everyday brings a long cold lonely night
Spirits in the wind, let out their mournful sighs
And I watch the rain fall down, like the teardrops from your eyes.

Oh my love, when you lay beside me, with this cold moon above
Dream your dreams, let your cares all fly away
We've been so alone, but soon these days must end And I will take you home, when the summer comes again.

Yes we'll be movin' on, with no sad good byes
But it's only the deepest part of our love, that will keep us together
But while this cold wind blows, and tears fill your eyes
I'm counting the days, and learning the ways of a broken heart.

Yes we'll be movin' on, with no sad good byes
But it's only the deepest part of our love, that will keep
us together
But while this cold wind blows, and tears fill your eyes
I'm counting the days, and learning the ways of a broken heart.

Winter's come, another year, another season begun
Everyday brings a long cold lonely night

Spirits in the wind, let out their mournful sighs
And I watch the rain fall down, like the teardrops from
your eyes.
