I'm wide, I'm wide awake at night And my mind's preoccupied and the silence won't reside
Or resolve the feelings that exist Because it's easy to dismiss and it's harder to get heard

And I wish that I was stronger than the people that you meet
And I wish that you were lost without me
And though the more I think about it the easier it seems I'll just be fine, so here's to moving forward

Were we made as corresponding shapes?
Our two pieces tessellate, were we designed to fit as one?
And it's with patience that I wait
As these romantic notions take my dignity and tact
And I wish that I was stronger than the people that you
meet
And I wish that you were lost without me
And though the more I think about it the easier it seems
I'll just be fine, so here's to moving forward

And as the sun sets on this now
You'll be the one I thought about
And as the sun sets on this now
You'll be the one I thought about

And I wish that I was stronger than the people that you
meet
And I wish that you were lost without me
And though the more I think about it the easier it seems I'll just be fine, so here's to moving forward
