Four in the morning Iâ€™m gone
Driving toward the conquering of Dawn
And she stands in front of my eyes
Shifting the gears until I crash
And fall to a dream in her arms
Ooh what a day to begin
Here in the wasteland I stand
Hoping some things will remain
And that she will know who I am
Â€™Cause my heart is broken all the same
A burden that gets in the way
Ooh what a night to begin
And I waste myself for so long
And I chased myself for too long
Four in the morning sheâ€™s gone
I take all the right from the wrong
Drifting from all that Iâ€™ve known
Not all of them are prizes to be won
Theyâ€™re just lying down in The Sun
Ooh what a day to begin
Ooh what a day to begin
