

Gin Blossoms

"Idiot Summer"

Visit "Idiot Summer" on MotoLyrics.com

I walked home to the sun
I couldn't ride another one
I thought a lot along the lines

I've been fooled about all night
Wiped clean always by midnight
Wasn't it like an idiot summer
Wasn't it like an idiot summer

Three, four peaks all I could see
In the morning it's a hundred and ten degrees
But I like the goddamn heat

I lie awake half the night
Autumn is coming it seems like it's in sight
All the autumn that you can see
All the autumn that you can see

It's growing darker like the trees
But if all the trees should fall
All the bugs would crawl in my sleep

It's growing darker like the trees
But if all the trees should fall
All the bugs would crawl in my sleep

There's no telling I was so confused
I try but I can't help you choose
Tucson is so far away

I lie awake half the night
Autumn is coming it seems like it's in sight
Wasn't it like an idiot summer
Wasn't it like an idiot summer

Like an idiot summer
Like an idiot summer
Like an idiot summer

Visit Gin Blossoms page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.

