Oh God, I already forgot your name
But a name's just a string of letters put together, so clever
Oh God, I thought that I found God in your name
It's upsetting but the setting won't change
We're never gonna be the same

If you look everybody here is trying on new faces
And the ones that fit are surprisingly contagious
With a shiny new beginning we cordially invite you to
Into the dressing room
Into the dressing room
Into the dressing room

Oh God, it seems that I misplaced your secret
But I can see what it does or how it lights you up
Oh God, this season has seen better days
Keep it steady 'cause you're losing the pace
We're never gonna be the same

If you look everybody here is trying on new faces
And the ones that fit are surprisingly contagious
With a shiny new beginning we cordially invite you to
Into the dressing room
Into the dressing room
Into the dressing room

Don't spill your guts 'cause that's a mess
That no one wants to clean up
Is this enough, my heart is stuck
This feeling is breaking me up

Don't spill your guts 'cause that's a mess
That no one wants to clean up
Is this enough, my heart is stuck
This feeling is breaking me up

If you look everybody here is trying on new faces
And the ones that fit are surprisingly contagious
With a shiny new beginning we cordially invite you to
Into the dressing room
Into the dressing room

Into the dressing room
