I tear myself apart and I throw it on the ground in front of you Can't hide that I'm a social wreck And though I sit within the wounds that one day could destroy me
Sometimes it's hard to find my friends
As far as I can see it, I ain't got nothing else
And with all that you've taken from me, you can answer that yourself
This twisted world can sometimes seem like it's caving in around me
But I will not let it waste my mind
And though you're holding out on what lets me know where I stand Sometimes it makes it worse to know I ever trusted you
As far as I can see it, I ain't got nothing else
And with all that you've taken from me, you can
answer that yourself
Don't try it, don't tell me lies and call it some kind of truth
Go ahead and walk me, walk closer, escort me right to the edge Push me, push me I don't care, 'cause I'll keep coming back Slightly stronger, despite the worlds you've left and unbled and said

Well just keep your twisting, keep your twisting
But I'll keep breathing, I keep breathing.

There it goes, you're burning, you can't anticipate The things you push for now are just forgotten the next day
And there you're masturbating your own thoughts in our own eyes
And there you push the things on us you won't let us deny There you go, you're pushing us again Well, I won't always help you understand there you're setting your whole life on lies Forget about tomorrow, we're all here to survive
So you apologize and I accept it all on fate

But still you do not try to push away your old mistakes And now I find myself underhand to what you want you think you'll find it better child Well, go out and find it all
