You're the landlord, and the keeper of our love
You're the landlord, and the keeper of our love

Here was a heart, torn apart desperately in need of fixing
I never found a heart, big enough, let alone someone whom I could trust
All of you, opened up to let me see, in your heart there was just you and me

You're the landlord, and the keeper of our love
You're the landlord, and the keeper of our love

I had no place to go, left to wander aimlessly
Often I was asked, to spend the night
Ohh, but my heart wouldn't let me, didn't feel right
I don't know how or where you found the key
But you unlocked every door inside of me

You're the landlord, and the keeper of our love
You're the landlord, and the keeper

Who'll comes to see me when I just pick up the phone Who'll rush right over when I need to put the heat on
When my tears are flowing down the drain
I don't need no plumber cause he can unstop the pain
He's found the? and all my security
Everybody on the block knows
That I proud he found the key

You're the landlord, and the keeper of our love
Our love, you know, everybody knows it
You're the landlord,
You're the landlord,
And the keeper of our love
And the keeper of our love
You're the landlord, and the keeper of our love
