She's so perfect, but it doesn't even matter
Our feelings are far from the same, from the same

So take all of this in your hands
And make things perfect again
Just like you always do
Just like you always do
So take all of this in your hands
And make things perfect again
Just like you always do
Just like you always do

Waking up from hopeless dreams
That never seem to end
I am much happier there
A place where you and I walk together
So I'll swallow this bitter pill

And take just one more chance
Cause it's worth every ounce of pain
Just to know you...

So take all of this in your hands
And make things perfect again
Just like you always do..
Just like you always do...

My only wish is that you could see into my heart
View the scattered debris of lies, scars and faded
memories
View the scattered debris of lies, scars and faded
memories

She's so perfect...
