I will always remember
How You took that cross on Your back
To suffer for my treachery
On the day the sky went black
You separated the darkness from the light
You liberated my soul from the night
I will always remember
Your sacrifice of love

And I will not forget
The way You took the weight of the world
No I will not forget
The way You took the weight of the world
For me

It was a radiant morning
They found the stone rolled away
It was a merciful day
When You called by my name
You separated the darkness from the light
You liberated my soul from the night
It was a radiant morning
When the Heavens opened wide

You carried my shame to Calvary
To set my spirit free
And I will not forget
The way You took the weight of the world
For me
