You've disappeared but the thoughts remain
So thick that I can grab them
Why can't I forget all those times?
Why do I remain writing these lines?
Why should I complain about defeat?
Your face remains it's all I see

Etched in stone, your face remains
But soon I will break away
Etched in stone, your face remains
But soon I will break away

I've slowly learned to deal with this fear
Of living on without you
Why can't I forget all those times?
Why do I remain writing these lines?
Why should I complain about defeat?
Get off me I'm done

Etched in stone your face remains
But soon I will break away
Etched in stone your face remains
But soon I will break away

I face your fears one more time tonight
I've grown to see that it's your loss and not mine
I'll break away from all the pain in me
This inner loss will break away you'll see

I face your fears one more time tonight
I've grown to see that it's your loss and not mine
I'll break away from all the pain in me
This inner loss will break away you'll see

Why can't you see me through a different eyes?
Why can't you love me with a different heart?
Why can't you see me through a different eyes?
Why can't you love me with a different heart?

Why can't you see me through a different eyes?
Why can't you love me with a different heart?
Why can't you see me through a different eyes?

Why can't you love me with a different heart?

Why can't you see me through a different eyes?

Why can't you love me with a different heart?

Why can't you see me through a different eyes?

Why can't you love me with a different heart?

Why can't you see me through a different eyes?

Why can't you love me with a different heart?
