For what it's worth
I'll sacrifice it all to know you're still here
So what if the mark on your skin has faded away Your heart, your personality, and most importantly...

(Your friendship is what's been sincere)

Do you remember the times we've shared Can you sit back and smile knowing the things we've experienced People we've met, friends we've made, family we've become

Everyone is changing, there's very few that are real Just because you've lost the edge doesn't mean you've become a shadow

There's so much more to a family...
(than a label we) individually choose to live by
And hopefully you know that I won't turn my back on you..not ever, not this time

Everyone is changing, there's very few that are real
Just because you've lost the edge doesn't mean you've
become a shadow

There's so much more to a family...
(than a label we) individually choose to live by
And hopefully you know that I won't turn my back on
you..not ever, not this time

We said it in the beginning, and I'll say it again I'll make sure it stays in your head...

(This family is forever) Forever!

Do you remember the times we've shared
Can you sit back and smile knowing the things we've experienced People we've met, friends we've made, family we've
become

Just remember the times we've shared
