"A Little Thing Called Fear"

It's only the past creeping up slowly
It's only tomorrow in all it's uncertainty
It's only the dark leading you astray
It's only the blinding truth in the cold light of day
A promise that will be broken before it's made
A tiny hope that keeps you awake in faith
The phone not ringing that holds you on your own
I feel like you feel a little thing called fear

It's only the past creeping up slowly
It's only tomorrow in all it's uncertainty
It's only the dark leading you astray
It's only the blinding truth in the cold light of day
A promise that will be broken before it's made
A tiny hope that keeps you awake in faith
The phone not ringing that holds you on your own
I feel like you feel a little thing called fear

A little thing called fear
A little thing called fear
A little thing called fear
A little thing called fear
A little thing called fear
