In this ever changing world
We live in dangerous times
When you're standing on the ledge
There's no time to think it over
Get into the void

Is this the last time that you will question my faith?
This is the season of the crimson sky
I can remember the look upon your face
I can recall that moment in time

I tell you, my brother, fame is a dangerous thing
I can see through you, you're flesh and blood
Let's say goodbye to the past, it's a long time gone
Now I have fallen on sacred ground

You run against the wind
You hear the starting gun
Now don't you turn away
Now look what you have done

If you wanna make that move
Get into the void
If you're searching for the truth
Get into the void

I see the future, I hear it calling my name
Look back in anger, I still feel the pain
It brings back memories from space and time
This is the year of the newborn child

You run against the wind
You hear the starting gun

Now don't you turn away
Now look what you have done

If you wanna make that move
Get into the void
If you're searching for the truth
Get into the void

If you're looking for a thrill
Get into the void
If you wanna break your will
Get into the void

Is this the last time that you will question my faith?
This is the season of the crimson sky
I can remember the look upon your face
I can recall that moment in time

You run against the wind
You hear the starting gun
Now don't you turn away
Now look what you have done

The rivers have all dried up
The locust's in the sky
You better think it over
So give it one more try

If you wanna make that move
Get into the void
If you're searching for the truth
Get into the void

If you're looking for a thrill
Get into the void
If you wanna break your will
Get into the void

I can remember, I can remember
Remember
