I can see your eyes are burning
I can feel your wheels are turning
In my heart I've been mistreated
The mistakes I've made before
I've just repeated

I should have listened
Now the writing's on the wall
And you don't know what you've been missing
Now you're headed for the fall
You're the one they call the liar

In the night while you lay sleeping
But your mind still lies awake
Out there deceiving

I don't want to let go
But I have to get away
Now I want to let you know
That I'm leaving here today
You're the one they call the liar

Say goodbye, now stop your crying
I won't take those alibis
Oh, you've been lying

I should have listened
Now the writing's on the wall
And you don't know what you've been missing
'Cause you're headed for the fall
You're the one they call the liar

You're the one, you're the one
You're the one they call the liar
