(vocals: Ray Eberle & the Modernaires)

A little old church in England tumbled down
A little old-fashioned church in London town
A pile of mortar and brick appears
Where it had peacefully stood for years
A little old church is gone beyond repair
But after a while a new church will be there

And we'll hear nothing but good
Where the little old church in England stood
Where the little old church in England stood

And we'll hear nothing but good
Where the little old church in England stood
Where the little old church in England stood
