You don't look in the mirror anymore these days
It's hard to look into yourself sometimes
You made your point
You made it a point to think
"Maybe we are better off without your voice"

Wipe away the stain
Sever all the killing ties
We're killing time down here
Where the time is endless

[Chorus:]
Meet me in the stereo waves
A death through music; you'll never be missed
Meet us where the sun is missing
A suicide note - "you're welcome now"
All your life you've been told that you're never good enough
Never fast enough, never smart enough

Underground, we're all the same down here

I don't look in the mirror anymore these days
I'm scared to look into myself these days
I sing for you
I try to make sure it's known
I suffer from the same "disease" as you

Proclaim to be without solution
I can only aid you in song

[Chorus]

You're never good enough
You're never fast enough
You're never smart enough
Don't listen to a word they say

I don't look in the mirror anymore these days
I don't have the grace to forgive what I see.
