When I let go of myself, it all starts to align
And that's all right with me, it makes life worth the time
When I think destination has been found
When there's something to do and I think that I can
I see it wasn't your voice who spoke aloud
Just an illusion of who I think I am
Reality shows that I am dead
All of me is nothing and vain
Everything that I am is dead
Now I am living in Your name
You are my everything, You are my whole life
You are all I ever need, You are, You are I worship
You, creator of truth
In Your presence I'm so inspired
Captive my whole process of thought
Take control of my every desire
No longer going my own way
Not ambition to be fulfilled
I surrender my will to you
Humility is a gift I accept
