(Richard Supa)

Yesterday I use to hide the feeling deep inside
Never let nobody look
But for you my life's an open book
Tonight my heart is questioning
As the moment comes Something very special here
Butterflies have already begun.

Could it be love I found tonight
Never believe it, that it might yes it might
I can't remember ever, having it feel so right
Could it be love I found tonight?

You filled my life with tenderness
Encouragement as well
You helped bring out the best in me
You slowly helped me crawl out of my shell
You are so beautiful
Have given me today something really wonderful
Something that may never go away.

Could it be love I found tonight
Never believe it, that it might yes it might
I can't remember ever, having it feel so right
Could it be love I found tonight?

Can I be alone with you, passions from today are burning
No words can quite explain this glorious pain.

Could it be love I found tonight
Never believe it, that it might yes it might
I can't remember ever, having it feel so right
Could it be love I found tonight?...
