(G. Jones - L. Payne)

Take me, take me to your darkest room
Close every window and bolt every door
And the very moment I heard your voice
I'd be in darkness, darkness no more.

Oh take me (take me) to your most barren desert
A thousand miles from the nearest sea
The very moment I saw your smile
It would be like heaven to me.

There's not any mountain to rugged to climb
No desert to barren to cross
Some where if you could just show me a sign of love
I could bare any lose.

So take me (take me) to Siberia
In the coldest weather in the wintertime
And it would be just like spring in California
As long as I knew you were mine...
