I used to lay my hand on your heart
And pray that I could take the pain away
I would have carried all the weight
I would have never let you fall
I wish I'd had the strength to break
The legs of what took you away
But you were never mine to save
And I was never strong at all

So I just let you go

And now that you're gone
I hope you've found peace now
Cause after all that we've been through
Its something I couldn't give you
And now that its over I hope you've found closure
Cause after all that we've been through
Its something I couldn't give you

I used to wait till you would fall asleep
And lay beside the bed and weep
Cause I knew that you weren't mine to keep
But I could never let you go
I would have given anything
To try to keep you here with me
But I didn't have the things you need
So I could never keep a home

And I just let you go

And now that you're gone
I hope you've found peace now
Cause after all that we've been through
Its something I couldn't give you
And now that its over I hope you've found closure
Cause after all that we've been through
Its something I couldn't give you

And I hate myself
(And I hate myself)
For being human
What good are hearts

(What good are hearts)
If you can't use them

And I hate myself
(And I hate myself)
For being human
What good are hearts
(What good are hearts)
If you can't use them

And now that you're gone
I hope you've found peace now
Cause after all that we've been through
Its something I couldn't give you
And now that its over I hope you've found closure
Cause after all that we've been through
Its something I couldn't give you

And I hate myself
(And I hate myself)
For being human
And I hate myself
(And I hate myself)
For being human
And I hate myself
(And I hate myself)
For being human
And I hate myself
For being human
