How can we all see it clear as day but you're blind as a bat (deny it all)

How can you be so jaded now to buy into that

How can you fantasize

Don't you realize

She's stained by the scratches of another guy

It's all just a matter of time

Till it happens again, till it happens again

You hang on every lie

Till it happens again, till it happens again

She prances down the strip baby yeah she's so high (reach the sky)

Too fucked to remember that's her alibi (how convenient)

How do you justify

To hide the wreck inside

Clinging on to hope as if you're ready to die

It's all just a matter of time

Till it happens again, till it happens again

You hang on every lie

Till it happens again, till it happens again

Bang bang the sound of shooting

I'd love to see you drop

How simple it would be

To set you free

To most i wish the best

You earned my bitter fairwell

It's all just a matter of time

Till it happens again, till it happens again

You hang on every line

Till it happens again, till it happens again
