Good morning miss suburban america get up dont make a sound open your eyes you and me want the same thing so give me the drugs give me the lies give me everything money can buy la la policia come out with your hands up we got the whole place surrounded so let the girl go every breath you take you take for granted this time you pushed it too far this is how it ends miss suburban america shots fired and your photograph in the headlines i didnt mean to hurt you but they want blood they want life and theyll take me dead or alive la la policia come out with your hands up we got the whole place surrounded so let the girl go every breath you take you take for granted what do you take me for every breath you take you take for granted and this time you pushed it too far you made me do this miss suburban america every breath you take you take for granted what do you take me for every breath you take you take for granted this time you pushed it too far
