True romance

True romance

Any time you hear the door bells ring Never turn your back on love; never never never let it in; swing Like art, take 'em; should your lover die, shine your shoes Watch out, keep your windows down. Tomorrow it could be you Get out of bed, get ahead, get a hat, read the rags, read the news
Stay in fashion, make some cash. You really got nothin' left to lose

True romance

Find a new romance

True romance

Another true romance

Give yourself another chance

Forgive your brothers and sisters

Find some time for tea and wine and valentines

Forget about the big picture

True romance

Make time to get lucky and find favour with the freaks Be a fabulous weekend wonder and a miracle worker in the week

True romance

You are a genius everyday but don't lose your common touch

Join a gang, learn rhyming slang, learn greek, learn double dutch

Get a car, get a job, get a girl, pay your taxes, pay your bills

Pull yourself out the water, boy. God knows, no-one else will.

Another true romance
Give yourself another chance
Forgive your brothers and sisters
Find some time for tea and wine and valentines

Join a mercury cult, join a suicide pact, sport more sophomore, make more folklore, I think my heart might be the new black,
all the myths and legends are under attack, So I'll buy some lunar lamb, buy a ticket for a day trip to the moon,
Give one eyes on the boys of summer and drink in the afternoon
Get online, get in line, read between the lines, straighten up your facts, Stamp your post with penny blacks, 'cos 'Rule Britannia' ain't comin' back
