Hey, lick the tip, why dontcha

In 1983, a team of crack draw enthusiasts created a masterplan

A design for a way of livin' so revolutionary, so groundbreaking

That its very concept posed a threat to the fabric of society

A threat even greater than that of having a stiffy whilst standing

In the middle of a Glyn Williams' coach full of nuns

The implications of this radical movements' political manifesto

Posed a threat to the UK authorities who in turn drove its founder

Members under ground

Now, for the first time in world 'istory, these shadowy figures of

Chaos reveal, The Manifesto
