I believe that you were born during an eclipse and the stars named you moon child then you come, you rise in to my sky you stepped in front of my sky and it makes my whole world dark
and you light up the night
just like the moon
just like the moon you light up the night and sometimes, sometimes I only get a sliver of ya but I'm hopin', I'm hopin' for a full moon tonight laid back and I'm restless in the daytime and I'm chased by these shadows oh thats haunting me and then you come with nighttimes woolly blanket and you wrap me like a child who's been in the rain too long
and you light up the night
just like the moon
just like the moon you light up the night
and sometimes, sometimes I only get a sliver of ya
but I'm hopin', I'm hopin' for a full moon tonight oh I've chased the moon, ya know I've tried and each time I've tried, each time I've failed and each time I get so down on myself and I can't stand this pace of a snail while the rest of the world pales all the night ya know I know that I can probably never be the same 'cause you light up the night
just like the moon
just like the moon you light up the night
and sometimes, sometimes I only get a sliver of ya
and in the night
I can feel your lovelight shining bright falling down on me like autumn leaves tell me how am i supposed to fall asleep
falling down on me like autumn leaves
tell me how am I supposed to fall asleep
