I was spat into this world with nothing but my faith. now i spit on the sun and this world and silently grow up in discontent a smouldering hatred pushing me forward this soul is bruised and fucking tortured martyred

you promised me compassion, i am still alone you granted me salvation, i am still wounded up to the bone your name will be cursed for all eternity and through all remorse and all regrets this slaughtered soul will surely never forget
