(One, two, three, four)

These three sins have finally found me

Creeping in the back door they came without warning

Lust, ambition and greed

They've burned whatever they could steal

And burned whatever they could steal

So please could you go back where you came from again

We don't want to harm ya

We don't want to harm ya

We're your friends

We are not your armour

Deliver us from evil when the devil disowned me

These three sins have fell from their horses

And taking me and you for a ride

The serpents and the snakes will decide

The serpents and the snakes will decide

again

We don't want to harm ya

We don't want to harm ya

We are not your armour

We're your friends

We don't want to harm ya

So please could you go back where you came from
again

We are not your armour

We don't want to harm ya

We're your friends
