Set it off love, get away and just go and leave me
Sitting here all alone this way
Tonight isn't lost love, all is found I'm running away and I'm waiting for you to come around

Every time I see the water I think of you Every time I see the waves fade against some blue I think of, you

You know where to find me, waiting by the water Waiting by the lapping sea, I'm waiting for you ever patiently

So move along now, a dozen dreams you Call me now, and you're calling me to see what seems so wrong
With me, what's wrong with you
It's that separation contemplate it, figure it out
I miss you

Every time I see the water I think of you Every time I see the waves fade against some blue I
think of, you

You know where to find me, waiting by the water
Waiting by the lapping sea, I'm waiting for you ever

You know where to find me, waiting by the water
Waiting by the lapping sea, I'm waiting for you ever

To hold you now as the world is getting colder Hold you now, life is short but it's worth getting older Time moves along, we're strung along now

You know where to find me, waiting by the water
Waiting by the lapping sea, I'm waiting for you

You know where to find me, waiting by the water
Waiting by the lapping sea, I'm waiting for you ever

So set it off love, get away and just go and leave me
Sitting here all alone this way
