Yeah, I tried so hard to make it
And then I watched it slip away
And the hardest thing to face
Is the silence in the space
The times I feel so empty through the day

Can we make it through the darkness
And we will make it through the day

Calling out for you again
You always find my way
Calling out for you, you know
You heal these empty days

And it's all because you take me as I am
And it's all because you take me as I am

You know I run to find the answers
But what I need to find is you
And I don't need anything
No, I don't need anything
Because I know you always take me as I am

You know you get me through the darkness
You know you get me through the day

Calling out for you again
You always find my way
Calling out for you, you know
You heal these empty days

And it's all because you take me as I am
And it's all because you take me as I am

Calling out for you again
You always find my way
Calling out for you, you know
You heal these empty days

And it's all because you take me as I am
And it's all because you take me as I am
All because you take me as I am
